The Yale Community will celebrate 28 years of being "Full of Bologna.. and Proud of It!" from July 28-31st 2016. The wacky and wonderful Yale Bologna Festival began in 1989 with a small group of organizers and has grown every year into a bigger and better celebration of the lunchmeat that everyone loves.

Yale has been featured in newspapers, on television and radio for their fun, family atmosphere and we host nearly 30,000 bologna fun-seekers each year. Our town of 2,000 residents all come together to make the weekend wonderful – and it's all done by volunteers. It's a huge endeavor, but the fun is worth it and the family memories are now three generations strong.

Bologna has a long tradition in this community that was settled by German, Polish and Irish immigrants in the early 1800's. They brought their bologna making skills with them, and today our local plant, C. Roy, Inc., still provides us with over 2 tons of their secret recipe bologna for the festival!

The Yale Area Chamber of Commerce may be the official 'host and organizer' of this event, but it truly has been adopted by the entire town. The cooperation from many organizations is amazing to watch. Together they provide our 'Royal Subjects' and visitors an enjoyable weekend for all ages.

We are looking forward to hosting you in little Yale, our friendly town full of not only Bologna, but royalty and tradition. If you want to have some plain old fashioned, country fun, then Yale is truly THE PLACE to be..... and that's No Bologna!
